The story of his abdication in favor of his son, young Alexander, in consideration of a certain sum of money, is well known. Having quickly run through with his stipend, he is begging for more.

Milan signed a renunciation of all rights to the Servian throne on the 6th of March, 1889, but it is said that he is now plotting to depose the young Ring and have himself again proclaimed ruler at Beigrade.

It would be easy to overthrow the little King, who has no strong following, and this would make a breach for Russia, who, as everyone knows, has always wished to re-establish her influence in Servia. Austria, on the other hand, could not look on such a change unmoved. She holds Milan in reserve as a last card. It the Russophiles were to overthrow the reigning child King, Alexander, and Russia huried her troops into Servia on pretense of restoring order, Austria would be forced to make a counter stroke, war would be declared, and from Servia it would spread all over Europe. He will dismiss his Cabinet and call the Legislature to meet some time nextmonth, the law requiring that it shall meet before Dec. 29. Premier Mercier has sworn out criminal informations for libel against Contractor John P. Whelap, who made serious charges against

It is said that the Ministers and others affected by these charges will also bring civif suits against the alleged libelers. It was at first proposed to prosecute on the ground of seditious libel, but this idea appears to have been abandoned. An employe of the Treasury Department named C. Burroughs has disappeared. He had received from the Provincial Government a check for $172$ for work done, and being short of money he raised it to $1,472. He is said to have received a hint from a friend in a high place that his forgery had been discovered, and hence his hurried flight. It is not likely that he will be extradited as he

AVESTIGATING THE MURDEROUS ATTACK AT

SANTIAGO, Nov. 28.—Judge Foster has concluded his secret examination into the assault upon the seamen of the United States steamship Baltimore. It is probable that the result of the testimony in the case will be obtainable some time this week. The evidence will show that Higgin, the American seaman, was killed by a rife shot. It has been established that there was a bullet hole made through the scart and overshirt of the Baltimore salior who supported Higgin after he had been stabbed. In regard to Shields, the fireman on the steamer Reewana who was subjected to such ill-treatment, there will probably be an argument over the question of his nationality. It will be alleged that he is not an American citizen, as the ship's articles show that he is a native of Ireland.

PLATED BY SECRETARY TRACY. WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 23.-The Secreing a division of the Pacific station into two the North Pacific, but it is not known who will be sent to the command of the South Pacific. Had not the Chilian affair taken a more favorable turn there is no doubt bu that Rear-Admiral Gherardi would have been sent to these waters. It is expected now that he will continue in command of the North Atlantic station and will devote much of his time this winter to looking after the acquisition of one or two desirable sites for coaling stations in the West Indies.

In case of further trouble in Chili the commander of the South Atlantic station could be sent around the Horn with the vessels of his command to join the Baltimore, the Boston and the Yorktown. Rear-Admiral Benham was booked for this station, but he will will probably be given the South Pacific instead, though his orders may not be issued for some time yet. It is expected that Rear-Admiral Walker will be sent to the South Atlantic. The department seems most anxious to get him off to the South Atlantic station with the Chicago, the Bennington and the Atlantic, in order that we may be prepared to look after American interests in both Brazil and Chili in case of an emergency. The United States training ship Portsmouth from New York has arrived at Fort Monroe, Va., and the United States steamship Bennington has sailed thence for Yorktown.

THE GRAIN BLOCKADE.

apolis, Minn., says: One curious effect of the big wheat blockade has been the almost complete paralysis of all traffic from Duluth and Superior to the Twin Cities. It has already caused a great fall in soft coal, and dealers have been flying around at a lively rate in vain attempting to make connections. The mills are the greatest sufferers now their coal supply has run so short that it is feared that several of them will have to shut down for ten days or two weeks. There is of course plenty of coal at the head of Lake Superior but there is no way of getting it here. Hundreds of cars of coal are side-tracked waiting for the switch engines to get the wheat out of the way. Both the St. Paul and Duluth & Minnesota Eastern are working all the men they can get to prevent wheat trains from blockading. One Minneapolis firm is 1,500 cars behind on its orders. It is also learned that there is no chance for help from the East as Chicago is taking all the Illinois Central and the strikers in Indiana cut off supply from that locality. Soft coal will rise from 25 to 50 cents a ton this week, and small consumers will probably be forced to shut up shop at that.

THE TRAFFIC IN NEW YORK. New York, Nov. 23.—The shipping of the port of New York has been greater for the last two months than ever before. The number of British tramp steamers which have arrived has been greater than was ever known before. Most of these vessels came in ballast to take back cargoes of grain. At one store-house in Brooklyn eight steamers have been loaded within month. Three tramp steamers arrived close together yes-terday in ballast. They came for cargoes of grain.

JOURNALISTIC AMENITIES. Lots of Ink. Evening Telegram, H. V. Sevier, editor, had a ferocious attack upon Benjamin Harrison, editor of the daily Standard. On Monday last a duel was to have come off, but Rev. Father Kenney, hearing of it, had the principals arrested and put under peace bonds of $1,000 each. This was thought to be the and of the JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 23 .- Saturday's sent out Monday night, in which he was received at a roadside crossing. She was made to say that if he was not killed or wounded or the duel did not come off wounded or the duel did not come off he would shoot Sevier on Bay street with a shotgun. Two other articles were printed, both on the same subject, and to which sevier could not take offence. In this afternoon's paper Sevier retorted with a bitter article beginning: "A creature who is almost beneath the contempt of an honorable man, a fellow who was born a conspirator, a liar, a coward, a scoundrel of the basest dye, whose record wherever he has lived has been that of one promoting discord and division; a squirming wretch, who thrives on all that is base and fattens in spirit on the contempt for his misdeeds and baseness—this fellow was grossly insulted in return for one of his cowardly inuendoes and it is supposed that he had manhood enough about him to invite the other party to fight a duel."

It goes on in this strain, practically accuses Harrison of sending a challenge and then revealing the place of meeting to Kenney so it could be stopped. It is a stinger and the talk of the entire town. Friends of the parties are anxious to patch up peace, but don't see how they can as the principals are both hotheaded and mean business. If they meet in the present state of mind, peace bonds or no peace bonds, there will be trouble. The result is anxiously awaited and efforts will be made to patch up a truce, but the insuit is so deadly that it is up-hill work.

THE GENERAL'S CAREER.
Chief Executive of the State of Indiana Alvin P. Hovey was born in Mount Vernon, O., May 8, 1821. He received a common school education and afterward studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1848, and was practicing that profession when the civil war broke out. He entered the volunteer service as a Major of an Ohio regiment, and served with distinction at the battles of Shiloh, Corinth, Champion Hills and Vicksburg. At the close of the war he was brevetted a Major-General and returned North and settled down in Indiana, becoming prominent in Republican politics. In 1866 he was appointed United States Minister to Peru, where he was located for some time. He afterwards returned to his adopted State and was elected to Congress and became quite a figure in the House of Representatives. In 1888 he was seclected to bead the Republican State icket in Indians, and was elected over Courtlandt C. Wetson, who served with him both in the Union Army and in Congress. Gov. Hovey was taken sick while making a tour of Mexico. He passed through this city a short time ago and accompanied the Spanish Club excursion of this city as far South as El Paso.

SHERMAN AND FORAKER.

ORGANIZATION OF THE LEGISLATURE MAY BE THE DETERMINING FACTOR. Columbus, O., Nov. 28.-The point upon which the Senatorial contest will turn is the organization of the Legislature. The Speak ership is the factor which, in all probability will determine the result. Five or six prominent members of the Lowcommittal on the senatorship. They are candidates for Speaker. This is a position which in recent years has been filled in Ohio by rather tall timber. Such men have wielded the gavel as Gen. Charles Grosvenor, John F. Foilett, George L. Converse and Col. James E. Neal. The men now anxious to fill the Speaker's chair are Lewis O. Laylin, from Huron County, Charles P. Griffin, from Lucas, and M. L. Taylor, from Champaign, each in his third term, and David Taylor, from Guernsey; Harry M. Daugherty, from Fayette, and John F. McGrew, Clarke County, each in his second term. They are naturally very chary in expressing preferences in the Senatorial matter. But that question will certainly settle the Speakership also. There will be no compromise; the side that wins will take the organization and everything in sight.

The publication of interviews with the second term, they are naturally very chary in expressing preferences in the Senatorial matter. But that question will certainly settle the Speakership also. There will be no compromise; the side that wins will take the organization and everything in sight. matter. But that question will certainly settle the Speakership also. There will be no compromise; the side that wins will take the organization and everything in sight.

The publication of interviews with the thirteen Representatives and Senators from Hamilton County, showing that they all favor Foraker, gives great encouragement to the followers of the "Stormy Petrel" over the State. It is not known just why this should be so, as the Hamilton County delegation, which was nominated by George Cox, has generally been conceded to Foraker. The interviews which are coming out from the country members, some favoring Sherman and some Foraker, cannot be accepted as amounting to a great deal. Previous campaigns in the Legislature of Ohio show that the members are susceptible to change—of opinion. Indeed the Columbus Dispatch, a Foraker paper, is charging that money is to figure largely in the fight and that even if open bribery is not resorted to, it will be spent in large quantities in working up public sentiment for the candidates in different counties.

It is interesting to study the attitudes of leading newspapers in the State on the Senatorial question. The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette and the Engairer are for Foraker; D. R. Locke's old paper, the Toledo Biade, is vigor-rorously Foraker, while the Commercial of the same city, an organ of the Standard Oil Co., leans toward Sherman, in Cleveland, the Leader is rampant for Sherman, while the World, which is controlled by Standard Oil stockholders, is for Foraker; the Ohio State Journal, the central organ of Republicans in this State, and the mouth-piece of the Secretary of the Treasury, Charles Foster, is doing the most effective work for Sherman, while its rival, the Columbus Jupatch, an independent Republican paper, so bitterly against Sherman. The position of the latter is accounted for by the fact that some years as Ostmasterin Columbus and secured the appointment in his place of Mej. A. D. Rogers. Maj. W. D. Bickman has wheeled his paper, the Dayton Journal, in afternoon unless something is done before then to remedy it. Heroic measures have been adopted to make the present supply of water last as long as possible or until relief comes, and a number of the great industries of the city will be at a standstill for at least one day. All the factories using the city's water have been ordered to shut down so as to save the water for the necessities of the general public. The great engine which runs the cable on the Brooklyn bridge has been stopped and as many people as possible are being shoved across the bridge by the locomotives. All the fires under the boilers at the Brooklyn Navy Yard have been drawn and work is entirely suspended. The water has been shut off from the boilers in all hotels and office buildings, and as a consequence not an elevator in the whole city is running this morning. Work in every store where steam is depended on for motive power is suspended, and the number of those thrown out of work runs far up above fifty thousand. It is hoped that the repairs can be completed by to-night, but well-informed persons say that the work cannot be finished before to-morrow noon at the earliest. Hours Ahead of Others. The action of the Commercial-Gazette in coming out in double leads and advocating the election of both Sherman and Foraker, the latter in the place of Calvin S. Brice, who it says should be rejected by the United States Senate, is taken as equivalent to a confession that Foraker will not have a pole of the requisite length. It is also intended to arouse a clamor among Republicans to push the Legislature to take action in the Brice matter and to make Senator Sherman show his hand in that connection. He made a fortune of $150,000 in mines, and last year came home on a visit. At that time his brothers, Manuel and Louis, had a quarrel about some cattle which resulted in a lawsuit. Alfred interfered, and Manuel thought he took the side of Louis, but soon after Alfred went back to Nevada Manuel followed him, and was given employment by his brother. They evidently had some dispute over some mining property, for Manuel wrote home a few days ago that he intended to make Alf square up with him on that mine deal. Shortly after the receipt of this letter came the news of Alfred's death, and later the full particulars. He had been shot to the heart by his brother, Manuel, on sunday last. Manuel had gone to Loui to see Alfred. They ate breakfast together and then went to Alfred's office. A few minutes later Alfred was seen standing in the door faced inward. Then the muffled sound of a pistoi shot was heard, and he fell out of the door fat on his back. He was found to be shot through the heart, and his clothing was considerably scorched, showing that the pistol, which was of small caliber, had been close to his body when fired. NEW YORK, NOV. 23.—Dr. Edward McGlynnhas stated his position upon the terms which it is said have been proposed at Rome by which he might again enter the church. The answer came in his address at Coopers' Union last night. After reciting the published conditions, and going over again the stories of his excommunication, Dr. McGlynn said: "Earnestly as I should wish to exercise my ministry, and frequently to receive the sacraments, it is not possible for me to bring about so much desired a consummation by complying with the conditions."

Dr. McGlynn added: "My answer to this ultimatum is that I can not condemn or retract what I have said or done of an insulting character as against the Archbishop and as against the Holy See, for the excellent reason that I have not insulted the Archbishop or the Holy See. While I have criticised and differed with their policies and politics and opinions, as I had a perfect right to do, I am ready, if relieved from the excommunication and suspense, to abide by the orders and submit to the judgment of the Apostolic See." His noble tribute to Cardinal Newman stirred the audience deeply and it seemed at one moment that if a ripple of applaces should start it would sweep over the assemblage like a whiriwind. Here is an abstract of what Prof. Briggs said:

It ought to be a commonplace that there are three great fountains of authority, the lible, the Church and the reason. When it is said that the reason is a source of divine authority, it is because God enters the reason to speak through the conscience of man. The words "source of authority" do not affirm that the Church is an original source of divine authority, separate grom and independent of God. The common meaning of the word, as in the source of a river, the source of history and the like, justifies one speaking of the church as a source out of which, as out of a fountain-head or out of an original document, arises the divine authority, but the authority establishes the source as a former mold which it wills with divine content. The term "fountain of divine authority" ought not be open to the objection, for no one can reasonably confuse the fountain with the living water which flows through it, or the power back of the fountain that pushes the water forth. When we say there are historically three great fountain heads of divine authority, we state a fundamental fact upon which Christianity as a whole is agreed. The Christian Church is divided into three great parties on the question of the nature of these three sources; the churchmen have exalted the Church and the reason; but no party, so far as I know, has made the Bible, Church and reason co-ordinate. The Bible, Church and reason co-ordinate. The Bible, Church and reason have divine authority only as instruments of his sovereign will and gracious pleasure.

New York, 9:20 a. m.—The grist of the stock and grain market gossip over Sunday was generally bullish. Leading foreign bankers here are invariably bullish on stocks, and say that it is true that the relief of the French syndicate by Russia has had a good effect upon all of the European bourses. In Berlin speculators are buying Americans; the largest American houses are unusually bullish, and agree that all the Grangers and Trunk lines are in for higher prices. Dominick & D. state that there is no cause for fear, and Ed Sweet & Co. declare that the market is on a substantial basis, and the outlook most encouraging. A Large Audience Listens to the Liberal Professor of Theology Dr. McGlynn Refuses to Recant His Utterances and States His Reasons—Change of Pastorates—Religious News.

New York, Nov. 2:—Prof. Charles A. Briggs delivered last evening in the Ohurch of the Covenant the second in a course of thirteen synday evening lectures on "The Bible and Modern Thought," which opened on Sunday revening Nov. 15, and which will be closed by Prof. Briggs on Feb. 14. His subject last evening was "The Bible and the Reason," and on Dec. 6 his theme will be "The Bible and the Higher Criticism."

The Church of the Covenant is one of the largest Protestant houses of worship in the city, but its capacity was far too limited for the accommodation of all who desired to hear the Union Seminary professor. The body of the church and the three galleries were filled early. Camp chairs was processored in the aisles and every available space for standing room was occupied. It was a gathering of intelligent men and women representing many Christian denominations. Prof. Briggs spoke an hour and ten minutes and received the unbroken attention of all from beginning to ead. He is not an orator; his voice is not strong and resonant, but rather soft and fute-like, but his manner is pleasing, dignifed and characterized by an air of complete simplicity and sincerity which soon draws his hearers into sympathy with him. At times he emphasized the more eloquent passages of his discourse by a rising infaction, silich produces an impressive and thrilling discourance and interaction of the covenant passages of his discourse by a rising infaction, silich produces an impressive and thrilling discourance and interaction of the covenant passages of his discourse by a rising infaction, silich produces an impressive and thrilling discourance and interaction of the covenance and the city of the covenance of the covenance of the silications. CLEVELAND AND MILLS.

Those of Mr. MILLS' friends who take offense at Mr. CLEVELAND's recent declaration of impartial regard for each of the candidates for Speaker show more heat than is creditable to them. The excessive resentment they manifest will be considered a pretty good indication that they were counting largely on an industriously created impression that MILLS was CLEVE LAND's candidate, and that the friends of these two were in a "combine" to run the Fifty-second Congress and the next Demo cratic Convention.

The choice of a Speaker is a thing to be settled by the members of the House alone, regardless of any outside influence whatever. Any intrusion of the wishes of a President or candidate for President should be resented by every member as a breach of privilege or as a menace from the Executive to the independence of the Legislature. When an impression was abroad and was being made the most of in the Speakership contest, that Mr. CLEVELAND was for MILLS, the former acted with propriety in doing what he could to eliminate any such improper influence from the contest. If it placed him in a false position it was but an act of justice to himself and to all concerned in the Speakership matter to deny it.

His declaration that either of the leading candidates is good enough for him, and that he has not made and does not intend to make any suggestion in respect to the organization of the House, may be interpreted as an announcement that he is himself a candidate for President, but it is the very position he would be expected to take if he were President, and why not as a candidate for President? An ex-President holding his position in the party, and not member of the House, cannot meddle with the organization of the latter without engaging in a bit of rather ungracious po-

The humblest member of the House should resent any such dictation from President, ex-President or presidential candidate, and Mr. MILLS himself should be more inclined to thank than to rebuke Mr. CLEVELAND for straightening out what was crooked in the speakership race.

THE ASSISTANT CITY COUNSELOR IN VERY PECULIAR POSITION.

He Defends His Action by Saying He Has Already Got His Fee-Mayor Noonal Refuses to Reply to President Marous Bernheimer's Invitation-The Mullan-

The peculiar way in which Assistant Cit, Counselor William P. Macklin looks at things is pretty well shown by his course in a suit hich concerns the Board of Public Improve ents. The suit involves the claim af Con tractor William Hartley against the city, and the Assistant City Counselor, in spite of the law which directs him to give his whole torney of the contractor, and intend cute the suit for him. The contracto bout two years ago built a chimney at the House of Refuge, and when he presented his bill, which was $591, Supt. John D. Schaffer refused to approve it. The con-tractor appealed to Col. Heny Flad, then President of the Board of Public Improve ments, and the matter was mitted to arbitration. While this was going on Col. Flad resigned and got him to sue the city for the amount of his bill. When Mr. Macklin was made Asand got him to sue the city for the amount of his bill. When Mr. Macklin was made Assistant City Counselor it was supposed, of course, that he would give the suit to some one else, but to the surprise of the officials at the City Hall who are interested in this case he has announced his intention of prosecuting it as he would if he were not in the pay of the city as its counsel. He has come to this determination without consulting City Counselor W. C. Marshall about the matter, and the opinion is very generally expressed that the City Counselor will demand of his assistant that he get out of the case when the criticism of the officer's attitude gets to his ears. Mr. Macklin's position in the matter is so remarkable that those who haven't talked with him do not believe that he will stay in the case. He was in the Building Commissioner's office to day getting evidence about the work that had been done, and Deputy James Harrison showed him papers and books.

"I supposed, of course, that he was going to represent the city in the case," said the deputy, "and I gave him all the evidence he wanted.""

The Assistant City Counselor was asked if he did not think his position invited criticism. "I can't help that," said he. "I've turned over all my other business to other lawyers, but I'm keeping this case because I've already got my fee for it."

A According to report Prof. R. L. GARNER oon as this question is brought up there will be a collision between President George Burnet and Street Commissioner Mr. J. Even when the tracks and the roadway are divided by curbing, he says, passengers on the cars would decidedly object to dodging across the boulevard between the vehicles to get to the sidewalk, and the trains would be likely to frighten borses. He has not insisted on putting a clause prohibiting the use of the boulevards to street railways into the bills that have been aiready passed, because be believes that after a boulevard is once made it will be impossible for a company to get the right to make a track on it, but as soon as a bill is brought before the board that contemplates giving a right of way to a railway he plates giving a right of way to a railway he will begin his fight.

EAST ST. LOUIS.

Mrs. Anna Hickman Dies of Her Wound

To-Day-Notes. Mrs. Anna Hickman died last night from the effects of the wound inflicted last. Thurs day by her delirious husband, who while suffering from mania a potu, shot her in the day by her delirious husband, who while suffering from mania a potu, shot her in the right aye and fired two shots into his own head, killing himself. Pear! Ernest Hickman, the husband had been on a spree in St. Louis and returned home the night before the shooting, sick and exhausted. He received the attentions of a physician, and the next morning he was strengthened physically, but delirious. At about it o'clock, a sudden determination apparently having seized him, he procured and loaded a revolver, and advanced upon his wife as she entered the room in which he was. "Now we will die together," he exclaimed, and a moment later he fired a shot from the revolver at his wife's head. The builet struck her in the inner corner of the right efe, but did not kill her, and she ran out of the house into that of a neighbor, John Canty. After she had gone Hickman reloaded the revelver and killed himself. Mrs. Hickman was removed to St. Mary's Hospital, where she died last night. During the short period she survived she was atteneed by several physicians among them Dr. Mudd of St. Louis, and the day following the shooting it was thought that she might recover, but later it became apparent that the builet in her head could never be withdrawn, as it had lodged at the base of the brain, and that death must invitably result. She died at 7 o'clock last night. This morning the body was removed to the Hickman residence, 766 Ohio avenue, where Coroner Woods held an inquest at 10 o'clock. The verdict of the Coroner's jury was in accordance with the facts herein related. Yesterday afternoon the remains of the husband were interred at St. Peter's Cemetery, and those of the wife will be buried alongside his grave on Wednesday.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

To the Editor of the Post Dispatch: You have done considerable for me in the this matter which I have to speak of now. Can you prevail on the railroad companies to have a cheap rate or even half-fare to the western part of the State for the Xmas holidays? I live in Kansas City, Kan, and long to be with my aged mother and father in St. Louis during the great rejoicing. I have not seen them for a long time and if the rates are cheap I would love to take advantage of them then, but if they don't come down I'll have a very sad Xmas. Please use your influence over the companies and oblige, A. R.

"Mrs. Packard," said he, "I believe that you have fully recovered your reason. I believe that these strange religious notions you had when you entered here have disappeared, and that you can now safely return to your family and the care of your children."

The poor woman was overjoyed at the thought of freedom, but again her honesty of purpose operated to her disadvantage. In her capacity of matron she had seen immates struck cruel blows and shamefully abused by attendants, and she resolved as soon as she became free to make known the evils to the world. Her sensitive ideas of right and duty caused her to apprise Dr. McFarlan of her intentions. His manner toward her changed at once. He threw off the mask.

"You are a dangerous woman," said he, "and never again will you go out from these walls. Henceforth you will be regarded as an incurable patient and be confined to the madroom."

The doctor stated that her liberty meant disaster to himself and her husband. He suggested that Rev. Mr. Packard have his wife incarcerated in an asylum in another State as incurably insane. To facilitate this the doctor offered to furnish a certificate of insanity that would cause her admission to any institution. Mrs. Packard wrote a letter setting forth the facts as related above and threw it out of the Window. A passer-by chanced to see it and it fell into the hands of friends, who took it to Judge Starr. It was the note he had asked for three years before, and he at once issued the writ of habeas corpus. Mrs. Packard was tried and adjudged sane. In the meantime her husband had taken all her property and left the city. He has now been dead six years.

Mgr. O'Bryen, the Pope's Chamber-lain, at present in the city to attend the Golden Jubilee festivities of the Archbishop, preached at the Church of the Holy Angels, on mixed marriages yesterday morning at 10 o'clock mass. He condemned the union of Catholics, especially women, with non-Catholics in the strongest terms. He declared that "mixed marriages are a curse." The rumors of a forthcoming encyclical, which will forbid mixed marriages are a which will forbid mixed marriages absolutely, have not yet abated. These rumors will certainly not down, when an attache of the Pope's household, the Lord Chamberlain of the Palace and come direct from Rome, se lects the particular subject of mixed mar riages as the target of his argument. THE MONSIGNOR'S SERMON.

The Monsignor read the Epistle and Gospel of the day, then said by way of introduction: "It is a proof of the unity of the Catholic Church that your pastor permits me, a stranger from a strange land to adyou on matters of faith we are all children of the one Master, sons of no crochets which have their beginning and, perhaps, their end with me, for you and I drink from the same source of light and and he had been wont, when in Rome on her feast day, to visit her home, the place of her mertyrdom.

"On this day," he said, "in Rome, not the present pagan Rome, but in the days when Rome was Rome, all the choirs of the city joined in one grand chorus of praise to this patron of music."

He then sketched briefly her career. She was the talented daughter of a Roman patrician family in the early days of the Christian era. She became a Christian, but she was forced to marry a scion of a pagan family. She told him on the day of their betrothal that she could not be his spouse, for she had dedicated herself to God, who would protect her. He could not understand and she bade him go to the head of the Christian Church and learn. He went and returned a Christian. The Monsignor dwelt upon this incident, which exemplified the volume of noble liberty which Christianity had given to women. He declared that the church had raised women from the depths of slavery to the pinnacle of freedom.

MIXED MARRIAGES.

The speaker passed directly to the question of mixed marriages. He spoke about as follows:

"This thing of an editor running all over the country," said Miss Field, laying aside her pen, and at the same time keeping upithe editorial grind, is rather a big contract. That's why I had you come up to the room, even if it is in disorder, instead of going to the parlors. They predicted that I would find what they called the 'Wild and Woolly West' utterly indifferent to all art questions and practically ignorant of art. They were mistaken. I found that wealthy Western people like those of the East went to Europe, studied the art galleries there, paid close and intelligent attention to art in America, and were every whit as well versed in art as the people of the East. Here in St. Louis I have visited the private galleries of Mr. Chapman, Mr. George E. result of my trip through the West is that I can now feel assured that the movement for fear art will meet with just as warm and intelligent support from the West as from the East. And I shall take care to make this fact known through my own paper. To night I give a talk before the St. Louis Artists' Guild and its friends at the Museum of Fine Arts on the subject of free art. I hope St. Louis will meet the movement as warmly as other citles. I have not taked with any of the guild members yet, nor have I visited the Fine Arts Museum. I shall only remain in St. Louis a day or two longer, and will then leave for Washington via chicago. I am delighted with the work I have done throughout the West and return home in excellent health and spirits."

The meeting of the Artists' Guild at the Museum of Fine Arts to night is a regular meeting at which, beside the guild members, only a few of Miss Field will be the guest of the club and her remarks will be confined to the subject of free art and the Art Congress to be held in Washington next spring. The Board of Control of the Museum of Fine Arts have also been invited to meet Miss Field to-night.

CAUSE OF THE SUITS. CAUSE OF THE SUITS.

The last Legislature passed three acts concerning pools, trusts, combinations, corporations and stock companies.

The first measure is entitled "an act providing for the punishment of pools, trusts and conspiracies to control prices." It provides that any corporation organized under the laws of this or any other State or country for transacting any kind of business or any partnership association, who shall create or enter into any pool, trust or agreement to regulate or fix the price of any article of merchandise, or any agreement or combination or contract to fix or limit the amount or quality of any article to be sold, mined or produced or maintained in this State, shall be deemed guilty of a conspiracy to defraud, and shall be subject to a penalty of $100 for each day it shall continue to do so."

On Oct. 22 Secretary of State Lesueur, as is provided by law, sent Circuit Attorney Clover the names of about 330 firms in this city who he alleged failed to comply with the law. Among them were many of the largest concerns in the city, including newspaper publishers, brewerles, telegraph companies, flour mills, medical colleges, hotels, street railways and in fact all lines of corporations.

THE SECOND MEASURE.

The second measure is an act requiring foreign corporations or bodies incorporated under any other laws than those of Missouri who are doing business in this State to have a public office at which to transact its business, subjecting it to certain conditions and requiring it to file articles of incorporation or charter and to pay taxes and fees. Among the conditions imposed are that the corporation shall transact no other business than that set forth in the filed articles; that they shall not hold real estate for a longer period than six years, nor mortgage any property they may hold to the advantage of debtors in this State. The penalty for falling to comply with the requirements of the law after notification from the Secretary of State is $1,000. There are thirty-one delinquents under this law.

The following well-known firms are on the list:

Co., Household Sewing Machine Co., Cleveland CoOperative Stove Co., American Tack Co.

THE THIRD MEASURE.

The third measure is the one which has stirred up the greatest comment among city merchants. Numbers of meuceants who have received notification and refused absolutely, and express their determination to fight the matter out in the courts. The obnoxious measure is an act requiring incorporated companies organized for the purpose of gain or holding property (except railroad and insurance companies) to report annually to the Secretary of State. The measure requires that in their annual report such companies shall give the location of their principal office, the name of their President and Secretary, the amount of capital stock subscribed and paid up, the par value of the stock and the actual value at the time of making the report, the cash value of personal property and real estate and the amount of taxes paid and when and to whom paid. The penalty of failing to comply is a fine of not less than $100 or more than $1,000. Each thirty days in which failure to comply is persisted in shall constitute a separate offense.

The offenders under this measure are pretty much the same as under the first measure.

ADMIRAL BROWN ORDERED TO PRO-CRED TO HONOLULU.

The Pensacola There and the Charleston on the Way-Rumors Which Reach This Country From the Islands-Strength of the Revolutionary Movement-Hawaii for Hawaiians.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 28.-The improved status of the Chilian affairs has altered the plans regarding the San Francisco. The San Mare Island yard for repairs and an early return to Valparaiso will now be dispatched to Honolulu. It is considered quite importan for the interests of the United States to have a good display of force in the harbor durin the coming elections in the Hawaiian Islands and as Rear Admiral Brown is especially popular with the present Government there, his presence, it is believed, will aid materially in strengthening our chances for se-curing coming privileges. The Charleston is now en route to Honoiulu, where she will remain until Admiral Brown arrives. With the Pensacola already there Admiral Brown will have three vessels to give support to the negotiations he will be authorized to conduct in connection with the coaling station. This radical change of destination of the San Francisco, coupled with the recall of the Charleston from China, under orders to proceed to Honolulu, has naturally been con nected with the rumors of impending disrbances in Hawaii. The Charleston was rary service as flagship until the arrival of the Lancaster by the round about way of Funchal, Cape Town and Singapore, but it seems the Charleston did not wait for the arrival of the Lancaster. THE CROP OF RUMORS. Within the past few weeks there have be Within the past few weeks there have been many rumors about the situation in Hawaii. After the death of Mr. Dominis, the Prince Consort, it was declared that Queen Liliuokalani had passed completely under British influence, and that American interests would suffer. Then we had a circumstantial account of the Queen's lying at the point of death, with disease of the heart, and of Americans arming to prevent the heir apparent, Princess Kaiulani, from ascending the throne. When it became known that the Queen's health was particularly good and that she was not subject to heart disease, there were stories of the projected seizure of the islands by Great Britain. Finally we have dark intimations that our Government proposes to do the seizing, and that, as a preliminary step, the Charleston goes to Honolulu.

have dark intimations that our Government proposes to do the selzing, and that, as a preliminary step, the Charleston goes to Honolulu.

To give color to this rumor, now comes the statement that the San Francisco sails at once to the islands.

It is safe to say that England would hesitate a long time before incurring the hostility of the United States by trying to annex these islands, while our own Government has already respected Hawalian autonomy. That the Queen's warmest friends are among the English, she has frankly avowed, and it is fair to infer that since the death of her husband, who was an American, she is more susceptible to British influences. But no attempt on her part to discriminate against American interests is really to be apprehended; nor, since under the new constitution of Hawali the memarch is little more than a figurehead, could she carry out an anti-American policy, even if disposed to do so? Although her brother-in-law, Mr. Archigold Scott Cleghorn, the father of the heir apparent, is a native of Scotland, he left that country as a child, has lived in Hawali forty years, and declares that his sympathies are with the United States rather than great Britain, since the former is commercially much more important to his adopted land.

There is, however, one threatening disturbance in Hawali, which might become serious. A native party, under the motto of "Hawali for the Hawalians," has for several years been menacing revolution, and on one occasion, under Kalakaua, actually attempted it. Members of Kalakaua's Cabinet afterward accused each other of conniving at the revolt, with a view to placing on the trime the heir apparent. However that may have been, the present queen, who was at that time the heir apparent. However that may headers appears to be for a republic or anestion to the United States, since under the rof these changes they might expect a larger share in the actual administration of the islands. More than a year ago Admiral Brown, cruising to Honolulu in the Charleston, expressed t cisco and Charleston would do the same should a revolt break out at Honolulu this winter. With the Queen's British proclivities this group of islands will be all the more carefully watched hereafter. Hawaii has two possible destinies to contemplate. Either she will continue independent, as kingdom or republic, or she may be annexed to the United States.

retired, but Marvin kept on, driving him a week later two terrific heats, one in 1:10¼ and three hours later another in 2:09¾. Nov. 16, six days after the two very fast miles were trotted, Marvin drove the stailion in 2:10½, and but for breaking he would have had the record. The next day, Nov. 17, he trotted his famous mile of 2:08¾, beating Allerton's world's stailion record and equalling the time of Maud S. The record of Sunoi is the only one which surpasses his performances in time, although Maud S. really did a much more creditable performance as she made her time over an oval track, whereas he traveled over a kite-shaped track.

THE CLIFTON TRACK TO REOPEN.

A piece of very interesting news is the folwing, says the New York World:
"The Clifton Jockey Club, an organization

"The Clifton Jockey Club, an organization of recent date, has issued $100,000 in bonds. The Fidelity Title and Deposit Co., of Newark, guarantees the payment of them in gold in ten years, the payment of 6 per cent interest semi-annually in gold and the payment of $1,100 for each bond should any of them be presented for payment after the lapse of two years from issue. To secure the Fidelity Co. in its undertaking, it receives a $100,000 mortgage given a few months ago by Charles H. Ford to the Engemans, who had ostensibly sold the property to Ford. The mortgage was given to secure part of the payment of the purchase money. This mortgage has been satisfied, the release having also been filed this morning."

Something's in the wind, that's sure. There is no way in which the Clifton track can be used that will increase the value of the bonds if per cent in two years and pay 6 per cent interest besides except for racing. The natural assumption is, therefore, that racing While he has not secured any match contest yet, I don't think that his manager, Billy Madden, will mourn the fact, because Maher is getting any amount of advertising. It is in some respects a pity that Corbett will not fight him, and it is just as much of a pity that Maher declines to fight Kikrain. If Corbett persists in refusing to fight Maher the latter might arrange to fight Choynski, who probably is now a harder man to beat than Corbett. But after all, it may be said that Maher and his manager do not want a fight, but only want to talk about one.

In 1890 the three colleges tied in all three games, and Princeton retained the title of champion, and in 1886 the same college played a draw game with Yale and again retained the title. Yale retained it in 1884 on a drawn game with Princeton.

No owners were heavy winners on account of the races run, all being purses. Several boys rode well, notably Perkinson, Bryant and Hoggett, who tied for first honors, each winning fourteen times. The Gladstone Club of Providence has written to W.E. Harding, asking him to find a man to meet an unknown before that club. Chapple Moran was proposed, but the club thought him too clever. The club was then notified that Alf Levy would fight for $700, and the reply came back that Levy was too light a card for that kind of a house.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 23.—It was developed yesterday that Billy Barnie's trip West was in regard to the Association circuit for next season. He and Phelps spent yesterday in outlining a plan. This consists of about ten acres, on what is known as Packers' avenue, and is situated between the packing establishments of Francis Whittaker & Sons and the East St. Lonis Packing & Provsion Co. In addition to this tract the new company also expects to secure enough property directly opposite to make a total of about fifteen acres, and will then, it is said, put up what will be the largest plant in the West. at the time of his last visit here, Mr. Knox brought the plans of the buildings which his company proposed to erect, but did not make public their details, nor, it is believed, did he close contracts for the work. The new plant is to cost $500,000 and will afford employment to several hundred men. The company will at first use the plant only for their beef-packing business, but their plans contemplate finally the establishment of both beef and pork-packing in East St. Louis.
